

Edit Your Own Website

We build Content Management System (CMS) web applications that make editing your own website a simple and immediate task.

A CMS allows any registered user to log in and make changes and updates to their website through an easy to use module, similar to editing a WORD document. Changes can be made from anywhere that has an internet connection in a matter of seconds.

at a glance

We are a group of creative individuals with a passion for graphic design and website development technologies. Our idea is simple. Exercise the same passion when designing a simple flyer, a custom logo or developing complex websites that an artist would apply to a fine work of art. Every detail must be just the way our client and our staff had envisioned the final product to be. Like a fine work of art, your website or design project will not have that final signature until that last brush stroke (or key stroke) has been applied. Our mind is our medium and your project is our canvas. Let's work together, and make a design masterpiece that will keep customers coming back for more.

Web Design / Development

People visit websites with a goal in mind: either to learn more, to buy a product or service, to be convinced or reassured about something, to register for information, or for other reasons. By understanding your customers' goals and motivations, we can create an intuitive experience to match. We can convert visitors to clients.

Logo Design

Like a masterful work of art, the ideal logo design needs to tap your inner emotions, stimulate your visual appeal, and etch itself into your memory. Your image matters. Your logo speaks volumes. Your corporate identity has seconds to impress them with your branding. Your logo design is priceless. Your logo designer is paramount to your success.

Marketing Material Design

In order to capture your prospects attention you must first give them a compelling reason to listen to your message. An effective message will go unnoticed if the material you are providing isn't aesthetically pleasing. Studio2 will take your message and create an image that commands attention and promotes tangible benefits to your target audience.

Melding Technology with Imagination.

Though we take our creativity and graphic design knowledge very seriously, the knowledge of current technologies and standards are no-less important when building websites and web applications.

Today's internet requires close attention of standards (such as valid XHTML 1.0) that all professional developers need to pay close attention to. These standards allow broader usability throughout the web, as well as overall browser compatibility and consistent look and feel. Studio2 Interactive lives by these technical guidelines so that in the end our clients can rest assured that they have a quality product.
